

THE COLONIAL LIVING-ROOM

ARTHUR TODHUNTER

101 PARK AVENUE
NEW YORK

THE title of this booklet will, to the minds of many, recall some particular old Colonial room, which has imprinted itself upon the memory by reason of its restful charm.

The low, raftered ceiling, the quaint, plainly panelled walls, the spinning wheel—reminding one of an almost forgotten industry—the picturesque old high-backed settle and rocking chair, and the old-fashioned sofa—these are some of the details we picture in our mind's eye, and lastly, but standing out, pre-eminent, the fireplace with its simple, dignified mantel, and plain but useful andirons and firetongs, its cheerful and ruddy blaze emphasizing the homelike appearance of the room.

In issuing this booklet, I am endeavoring to bring to your notice my Colonial mantels of generous proportions.

I find there is a great demand for these, the difficulty for those about to build being, to know exactly where they can obtain the charming old-time effect, which so much enhances the beauty of a Colonial room.

Lastly, I should like to impress upon you the fact that these are in no sense stock mantels, each one being specially made to harmonize with the surroundings for which it is intended.
